

Appropriation and Other Big Bills Up

In Legislature—Budget Cut $10,000,000 from Last Year—Hear Storm of Protests on Tax Measures—Waterpower Hearing Wednesday.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Feb. 13.—Home rule, taxation on business, port authority, water power and other measures discussed by Governor Miller in his annual message, and which are causing the real controversy at the 1922 session of the legislature, will be acted upon by the senate and assembly this week.

The annual appropriation bill probably will be submitted to the lawmakers tonight. The total of the budget is expected to be about $126,000,000, nearly $10,000,000 less than last year.

The measure carrying out the New York port authority plan will be on the calendar in both houses. While Republican conferences last week showed that it has sufficient number of votes for passage, the bill will be the object of a united attack by New York city legislators. Its passage will come only after a long debate.

Tomorrow afternoon the taxation committee of the two houses will have sort of a field day on all taxation measures. The bill that will probably receive the greatest consideration is that introduced by Senator Davenport, chairman of the taxation investigating committee, imposing a four per cent tax on all unincorporated business. This measure has aroused the business world, and undoubtedly will bring to Albany many opponents and advocates. For several years there has been a four per cent tax on business corporations, and the backers of the Davenport bill believe that the same levy should be imposed on unincorporated business.

The assembly judiciary committee tomorrow afternoon will give a hearing on all home rule measures now before the legislature. These include four constitutional amendments which would give cities the right to amend their charters and make other changes in their local government without legislative action. Any city laws acted upon by the legislature under these amendments would have to be general in character, that is they would have to apply to all cities, or to all of any class of cities. These amendments provide a greater measure of home rule for which many cities have been fighting for years.

The governor's waterpower bills, which were offered by Senator Robinson, will be the subject of a hearing on Wednesday afternoon before the senate public service committee. One of these bills perfects the waterpower legislation of last year, providing for more complete regulation over rates to be charged, capitalization, service and secured debt of private corporations to which licenses have been issued to develop waterpower. The other bill authorizes the superintendent of public works to develop waterpower from the surplus waters of the barge canal, the power to be used exclusively for the operation of barge canal machinery. The bill appropriates $1,000,000 for the needed buildings.

The Democratic not only will fight the governor's water power legislation, but also want last year's water power law repealed. Senator Walker, Democratic leader in the senate, has introduced three bills carrying out the Democratic waterpower policy. They provide for state development and distribution of hydro-electric power at cost to the consumer.

Another important hearing will be held Wednesday afternoon before the assembly insurance committee, when legislation concerning mutual automobile fire insurance will be taken up.

The Lockwood housing committee's report on its financial condition will be submitted tonight. The committee and its counsel have been working for the past week on bills it will recommend. Real estate interests are watching for these measures with a good deal of concern. Any tax exemption proposal is expected to be hard fought by the realty men. Real estate interests also will make another attempt this year to secure a law licensing real estate brokers.

Labor men are lining up to make a hard fight against the bills to repeal the railroad full crew law, and to create an industrial relations court for the prevention of strikes. Governor Miller has taken no stand on the proposed industrial relations court.

A Lincoln Memento.

A rather interesting memento of President Lincoln is on exhibition in Forsyth and Davis' window on Wall street. It is the Lincoln and Hamlin electoral ticket for Mr. Lincoln's first campaign for the presidency in 1860, published by the New York Tribune. It belongs to Judge Clearwater's collection of mementos of American presidents.

Seeds and fertilizers are two all important subjects this year. A farmer can save considerable money and trouble by being guided in his purchases by the information given out by Mr. Cook.

MET IN POUGHKEEPSIE TO FORM VOCATIONAL CLUB

A meeting of representatives from Poughkeepsie, Beacon, Kingston, Middletown, Newburgh, Peekskill, Port Jervis and Walden was held at the administration building of the Poughkeepsie school department Saturday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a Hudson Valley vocational club. The committee in charge of the meeting was composed of George Brinkerhoff, of Newburgh; Lee N. Taplin, of Poughkeepsie and R. J. Service of Kingston.

The object of the club is to aid teachers who are interested in educational matters pertaining to commerce, homemaking, agriculture, industrial work or part time education. It is believed that by the formation of such a club wider interest will be stimulated in vocational work and closer co-operation will be brought about between the public schools and industry, commerce and the home.

POPE PIUS XI ASSUMES DUTIES

Following Brilliant Coronation in Which Tributes of Affection and Reverence Are Paid by People—Likely to Upset Some Old Customs.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Rome, Feb. 13.—Pope Pius XI, whose pontificate dates officially from the time of his coronation, today assumed formally the duties of supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church. The spontaneous tribute of affection and reverence which accompanied the brilliant coronation ceremonies on Sunday, made it evident that no pope in the past century has begun his high pontifical duties under more auspicious circumstances than the present occupant of the chair of St. Peter.

Pope Pius XI was deeply touched by the evidence of devotion which marked the whole of Sunday. He spoke with deep feeling of the manifestations of "his children" in the great square of St. Peter's, flanking the Vatican.

Sixty thousand persons witnessed the coronation rites in St. Peter's Cathedral while nearly 200,000 waited outside for the pontifical blessing.

There is a feeling of expectation that the new pope will reject some of the traditions of the Vatican. Since 1870 every sovereign pontiff of the church has immersed himself in the Vatican during the tenure of his office. He has made a voluntary prisoner of himself, never venturing forth. It is regarded as highly possible that Pope Pius XI will upset this tradition.

Hitherto the popes have chosen for their sleeping chamber an apartment looking into the beautiful Vatican gardens. The new pontiff has selected a room looking out over the city of Rome.

It is certain that there will be objections on the part of many members of the Sacred College of Cardinals if the pope begins to upset the old and accepted forms of the Vatican. However, Pius XI has already shown that he is a man of inflexible purpose once his mind is made up.

NEARLY CIVIL WAR ON ULSTER BORDER

Orangemen and Sinn Fein Armed Forces Face Each Other—5 Killed in Belfast—De Valera Given Demonstration of Loyalty in Dublin Which Worries British.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 13.—Two persons were shot to death and several others were wounded in fresh disorders in Belfast, during the morning, according to a Central News dispatch received from that city at 2 o'clock this afternoon. This brought the dead in Belfast and environs in the past 24 hours up to five—four men and a woman.

"Disturbances are reported throughout the whole countryside (Ulster province)," telegraphed the Central News correspondent. "An American newspaper man who left Belfast for the Free State on Friday has not been heard from since. A number of saw mills in the Ballina district were burned."

Orders for British troop withdrawals from Cork have been cancelled, said a dispatch from that city.

Ulsterites who were seized by Sinn Feiners in County Fermanagh (Ulster province), are reported to have been moved southward to County Cavan. County Cavan is the southernmost county of Ulster, lying on the Free State line.

There was considerable shooting here throughout the night and in addition to the dead several persons were wounded.

Soldiers fired upon snipers in Kashmir Road, wounding a woman in the arm.

The lawless element was quick to take advantage of the disorders and general excitement and many stores were robbed.

London, Feb. 13.—A tense situation prevails along the Ulster frontier where bands of armed Republicans and Orangemen confront each other ready for battle.

According to the Daily News, Sir James Craig, premier of the Unionist government of Ulster, proposes that large forces of British troops be sent to the Ulster border to patrol both the Ulster and the Free State side.

Official announcement was made in Downing street that four battalions of British troops which were originally under orders to evacuate Ireland have been ordered to Belfast.

A battle between Sinn Feiners and Ulsterites is reported imminent at Clones. Clones is on the Great Northern Railway. It lies in Monaghan county near the border of Fermanagh county in the southern part of Ulster province.

Hundreds of residents of the town and the district have fled. Armed men from each faction are patrolling the roads leading into the town and trenches have been dug.

While the British government is satisfied that the Irish provisional government at Dublin, under the guidance of Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith, is doing all it can to restore order and prevent further fighting, anxiety has been aroused by the Republican demonstration which greeted Eamonn de Valera in Dublin Sunday afternoon. De Valera made a speech opening his political campaign for the forthcoming general election. He spoke against the Irish Free State and demanded a republic.

BECK TO SPEAK HERE ON FEB. 24

At Boys' Welfare Council and Report Will Then Be Made On Result of Vocational Survey of City.

The Boys' Welfare Council of the City of Kingston has secured Cameron Beck as the chief speaker for the welfare conference which will be held in the High School Auditorium Friday evening, February 24th, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Beck, a few weeks ago, made a tremendous impression on the subject of "Boys and their Work" when he addressed the Hi-Y Club, the High School students and the Rotary Club.

Besides Mr. Beck's address, representatives from the State Department of Education, who have just completed the making of an educational survey of the City of Kingston, will report on the conditions they found and the remedies they would recommend from their experience. A large number of Kingstonians have spent a great deal of time in the making of this survey under the guidance of the state department and everyone should know the facts concerning the work being done in our city at present and the immediate needs in this line.

Various organizations that have made plans which conflict with February 24th have set them aside temporarily realizing the wide civic importance of this meeting.

FEW LOANS MADE BY FARM LOAN ASSN HERE

At the annual meeting of the Ulster National Farm Loan Association, Fred Simpson, C. J. Hepworth, Robert J. Harder, Millard Davis and Charles Wright were elected directors for 1922.

The secretary's report showed a total of $93,309 of loans in Ulster county; that the association had paid one dividend during the year and it was voted to pay 2 per cent dividend to stockholders in February.

Only eight men obtained loans in 1921 and it was decided that methods should be used to better inform the farmers of the advantages of borrowing money through the National Farm Loan Association. It was stated that no other agency is offering to loan farmers money on long term mortgages with such an easy method of payment and such a low rate of interest combined.

Capes, secretary of the New York State Conference of Mayors, but 4 automobiles were stolen in the city of Kingston last year and all but one was recovered by the police. This is an excellent showing as compared with the returns made by many other cities. In 1920, thirteen cars were stolen in Kingston and 11 were recovered. Last year 9,395 cars were stolen in all of the cities of the state combined and of this number 5,651 were recovered.

In addition to the ordinary valuables, including $200 in cash, the robber took John's false teeth and glasses.

Without the teeth he couldn't speak clearly enough to be understood, and without his glasses he couldn't find the teeth which he knew the holdup man had tossed away nearby.

By the time a policeman helped him find both, the robber had a safe margin of start and is still going.

COLDER WEATHER FOLLOWED SNOW.

Early Sunday evening, following a cloudy day, the temperature began to drop below the freezing point, snow began to fall, and two inches fell throughout the night. This morning thermometers along the Strand registered 22 degrees above zero, and the weather man has promised more cold weather with probably more snow.

The Hudson river ice harvest in this vicinity was practically finished Saturday afternoon when the ice men knocked off work for the day. The snow touched up the sleighing but spoiled the skating.

CROKER, BETTER, BACKS COLLINS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

He proved it today when I found him in the best of health and spirits, and he discussed his escape.

"I hope to be up in a few days," he said.

"They gave me up for dead. Frankly, I did myself. But I won."

"And now, I'm confident I'll win another Derby before going over."

Croker continues to take great interest in Irish politics and is doing everything he can to back up Michael Collins in his fight to establish the Irish Free State on a firm foundation.

GIRL SCOUTS' BENEFIT FEB. 21

The dates have now been set for the exhibition of aesthetic, national and fancy dancing to be given by Miss Emilie Riccobono and her large class of pupils, for the benefit of the Girl Scouts of Ulster County. The exhibitions will take place at the Opera House on the afternoons and evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, February 21 and 22. Owing to the large number of participants in the program it will be divided so that the afternoon and evening performances will present entirely different numbers both days. There will be an orchestral accompaniment of popular and catchy music. Many of the dances, especially the national dances will be given with the children in appropriate costume. Girl Scouts will act as ushers, and as stated above the proceeds will go for the Girl Scout Camp of Ulster County.

WINKING AT VULGARITY

In Movies Too Common, In Pastor's Opinion.

Kingston, N. Y., Feb. 10, 1922.

Editor of the Kingston Daily Freeman

Dear Sir:

Your editorial entitled "Smut" in your daily issue of February 10, is good wholesome thinking, and I want to commend you for taking the stand you do on the issue involved.

There has been an almost constant tendency toward winking at the vulgarity and looseness displayed in the moving pictures; it has certainly reacted on the characters of those producing them, and what has been true of the producers must, in some measure, have been true of those who have witnessed them thrown on the screen. We sadly need a great deal more sane thinking of the type of your editorial concerning this issue and many others of a like loose nature.

Cordially yours,

GEORGE M. CRANSTON.

GYM TEAM SHOWED AT 'Y'

Without Injured Captain. They Exhibited Amazing Agility—Coach, Who Once Had Broken Neck, Is Champion Club Swinger.

The Springfield Gymnasium Team gave a very excellent exhibition in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday evening to an appreciative audience numbering between 350 and 400 persons.

The team was minus the presence of Captain Graves who was injured in Newburgh Friday evening during an exhibition. Manager Morrison stated that Graves would be able to continue with the team in the immediate future.

What is most remarkable about Coach Judd of the team is that he was at one time suffering with a broken neck which he received while working on the horizontal bars in France during an exhibition which he gave there.

The men who are on the team are the pick of Springfield college. The members of the team who gave the exhibition in Kingston are Coach Judd, Acting Captain McCann, A. A. Clegg, E. Tarlsen, Joseph Law, W. P. Ashbrook, A. F. Schaefer, quarterback on the 1921 football team, Judson Ford and an accompanying pianist, C. L. Weaver. During the acts Mr. Weaver entertained the audience with musical selections.

The numbers on the program were, firstly, the "Morris" dance, an old English dance and secondly a club swinging drill with Indian clubs. Following this Professor Judd and Captain McCann gave a Russian dance. The next two numbers were a parallel bar drill demonstrating the shoulder roll and eccentric display of body twisting, and a complicated free hand drill.

The tiger leaping drew from the audience a great deal of delighted comment. This drill, which was enacted by the entire squad, consists of the use of an ordinary gymnasium horse with mats spread at either end to make an accidental fall less disastrous, and a spring board. The first part of the drill was a combination of leaping through the air in the manner of a tiger, and landing in an upright position after striking the end of the horse in a body-position parallel to the floor, and the turning of complete somersaults. And then as this began to grow too easy two of the members of the team stood on two chairs and held, at shoulder height, a long bamboo pole over which the men leaped as before. But this part of the drill called for a high arching sweep of the body in order to clear the pole, and the dropping of the body brought forth a wonderful display of muscle control. The third division of the drill found four men clinging to the horse while lying prone upon each other while the others jumped completely over them without touching the men or the horse. The two adventurous gymnasts completed two beautiful somersaults and this completed the act.

The parallel bar pyramid building act was perhaps the most strenuous event of the evening, for several formations were made and in each the utmost in physical control was demanded. In one formation one man stood upright on the bending bars while he supported another on his shoulders; the position was maintained for approximately 30 seconds. In the flying rings act, Professor Judd exhibited the wonderful control which he has over his muscles, for at the completion of the drill he left the rings at a distance of about 10 feet from the floor, twisted his body in a complete revolution and landed in an upright position.

And then the clown act of the evening was pulled off by A. A. Ashbrook who appeared upon the floor clad in a "Rube-Pinnocchio" costume, bewigged and burnt-corked in a most ludicrous manner. Advancing to the end of the mats which were spread along the floor for the tumbling act he drew from the depths of a pocket a ferocious pistol which he waved about while a tiny bell tinkled the tidings that it was time for the rest of his act to appear. Accordingly McCann and Schaefer trotted snappily upon the floor and commenced the serious business of the drill. McCann walked twice the length of the mats, or the distance of 60 feet, on his hands. Schaefer also did some exceedingly good tumbling, as did Ashbrook. But the most difficult part of this procedure was the Snap Through which looked to the average spectator as does an ordinary trigonometry problem. There were several other features along with the tumbling which elicited many a hearty "haw-haw" from the audience but which also called for a great amount of skill and strength.

The next two drills were a Hungarian dance, "Magyar," and a silver wand drill. The first number, the dance, was executed by the team dressed in white flannels with red sashes draped about their torsos and was very pretty indeed. The silver wand drill was also done by the team in white flannels. Each man had a long silver wand in his possession and they advanced upon the floor in the same snappy manner in which all of their movements were executed. As the lights flashed upon the wands during the progress of the drill the effect was very unique.

Those who saw the next drill saw the one-time champion club swinger of Australia at his best—Professor Judd. The drill was not the illuminated exhibition as was previously announced, but it was done with the ordinary Indian clubs which were banded with silver stripes which reflected the light in a most pleasing manner. The dexterous manner in which Professor Judd performed this feat was bewildering to behold.

The concluding event was worked upon the horizontal bar by each member of the team and included the dangerous giant swing which is executed by a stiffening of the arms so that as the gymnast swings on the cross bar his body is at an outstretched position, and a circle is described about the bar in the right position.

Even the college yell, a "regular-

Springfield was given the audience by the team and Mr. Begg, Mr. Hall and Mr. Bulay, who are all Springfield graduates. The cheer was responded to with a long burst of enthusiasm from the spectators. All through the performance the people were most appreciative.

The members of the team were entertained at the homes of the association members Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. Begg requested before the advent of the team to Kingston that two or three Student "A" boys assist in the moving of the apparatus preparatory to its use during the evening, and those who responded to the call to become chief property men were Richard Risely, Donald MacFadden and Cutler Brown. The ushers were senior members of the department.

Vilna's History.

Vilna, the pleasant little city on the Vilna, has an interesting history. It was here that long years ago, the Poles kept the sacred fire of paganism burning on the castle hill night and day. The city has lived through some strenuous ages fighting Teutonic knights, Tartars and other medieval Bolsheviks—not always successfully. With one eye on culture, even in the most gory days, Vilna still keeps the volumes—some 200,000—of her famous suppressed university.

Earliest French Coat of Arms.

The earliest arms of France were in three frogs (crapauds), which were figured on the shield of the mythical Pharamond. They appear again on the banner of Clovis in the tapestry at Rheims cathedral, representing the battle scenes of that monarch, who is said to have been baptised there on his conversion to Christianity. They are also found represented on a shield in Papyrus' edition of Faynan's chronicle.

Chinese Like the Phonograph.

The phonograph has found great favor in China. Chinese buyers like scratching so long as the machine is loud enough. The record-making is most expensive, the most famous Chinese hands and singers being engaged. The Chinese do not care for foreign records, except for laughing songs and loudly clashing instrumental selections, with the bugle and drum.

The Rose.

The tea rose was formerly known as the tea-scented China rose, because of its peculiar fragrance, said to resemble that of a newly opened tea chest. It originated in China, Sir Abraham Hume receiving from that country, in 1800, the first of this variety sent to Europe, a specimen with double pink flowers. The Latin name for the tea rose is rosa indica odorata.

Holy Cities of the World.

Allahabad is the holy city of the Indian Mohammedans. Benares is the holy city of the Hindus, while Cuzco is that of the ancient Incas. Jerusalem is the holy city of the Jews and Christians. Mecca, Medina and Damascus have first place in the affections of the Mohammedans.

Beneficence Well Repaid.

Beneficence is a duty. He who frequently practices it and sees his beneficent intentions realized, at length comes really to love him to whom he has done good.—Immanuel Kant.

It's a story "Back to God's Country" in its romance and "No-mads of the North" in its thrill. "The Golden Snare" will ensnare with its mystery.

A remarkable scene from one of the large ships showing the Northern Pacific afire at sea with the smoke and flames pouring from her decks and outboard as the big boat began to list. She burned to the water's edge and sank. Of the crew of twenty-four twenty were saved at once and four drifted in a long lifeboat were rescued hours later. A forty-mile gale fanned the blaze and added to the peril of the rescuers. It is suspected that a fire aboard the vessel probably before she left Brooklyn, was responsible for the blaze. The ship, which sank off Cape May, N. J., was of 8,256 tons and was one of the latest American merchantmen.

The Railroad Engineer's Efficiency Insurance

Monday Health Talk No. 63
By Froude & MacKinnon

Leaning out the cab window puts a twist in the spine that makes Bright's disease a common ailment among engineers. Before chiropractic became known the appearance of this disease was the end of the engineer's efficiency.

HEALTH FOLLOWS CHIROPRACTIC CORRECTS PRESSURE ON SPINAL NERVES IN DISEASES OF THE FOLLOWING ORGANS:

THE LOWER NERVE UNDER THE MAGNIFYING GLASS IS PINCHED BY A MISALIGNED JOINT. PINCHED NERVES CANNOT TRANSMIT HEALTHFUL IMPULSES. CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTING REMOVES THE PRESSURE. THE UPPER NERVE IS FREE AS NATURE INTENDS.

But since the advent of chiropractic spinal adjustments as a means of correcting the spinal malformation which is the primary cause of this disease, many engineers have found this new health science a form of efficiency insurance.

They will return by the northern route, with stopovers at all the important cities and points coming east, visiting the Grand Canyon and the Yosemite Valley. Avoid "Smoker's Throat."

It is often said that you do not get off of tobacco in cigars. This is a mistake. The oil is there and is as more burnt away or evaporated than in a pipe. It is drawn to and condensed in the end of the cigar between the lips of the smoker. For this reason cigars should never be smoked to the last inch. Certain connoisseurs will never smoke a cigar more than three-quarters of the way through. Smoking cigars to the bitter end produces "smoker's throat." As soon as a cigar begins to taste bitter, throw it away.

Thomas Tucker of New York city spent the week end at his home on Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Seamen and son of Kingston were week end guests of Mrs. Seamen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schweigel, at Oak Hill Farm.

The Rev. George E. Wright, D. D., pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, delivered a most helpful, encouraging and inspiring sermon, Sunday from this theme, "A Warning and an Invitation." Matthew 11th chapter, 28th verse.

A business meeting of the Epworth League Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held in the chapel Tuesday evening. After the business session a social hour will be spent. Mrs. William Schweigel and Miss Ida Shaw will be the hostesses of the evening. All members of the league are cordially invited to be present at both these sessions.

At the evening service in the Methodist Church a special program, "When Faith Prevails," was rendered by the choir and teachers of the Sunday school. The pastor, the Rev. George E. Wright, D. D., delivered a most timely and masterly address, "Abraham Lincoln, the Man God Needed." A silver offering was taken for the board of education for the negroes of the Methodist Church. I. Ginzburg and daughter, Miss Sophie Ginzburg, of Kingston were guests of Mrs. Kohan on Main street Sunday.

A meeting of the Junior League of the Methodist Church will be held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel. This league is in a very prosperous condition and increasing in numbers and interest. There is also need for an additional teacher in order to give the children the attention needed. Won't some one volunteer to assist the president, Mrs. William Schweigel, in this most worthy cause, as these young people are to be the men and women of later years and now is the time to mould their young lives?

Basil Potter of Ellenville spent the week end with his wife at their home on Stout avenue.

Keep in mind the valentine social to be held in the Sunday school room of the Reformed Church Tuesday evening, February 14. This social is given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Everybody welcome. Come and spend a pleasant evening and enjoy a sociable time celebrating Valentine Day.

Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will meet Wednesday evening, February 15, in their rooms in Pythian Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

An illustrated lecture will be given in the Reformed Church on Tuesday evening, February 14, at 7:30 o'clock by M. S. Safford, secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association on the timely subject, "Interesting Things and Prominent Persons of New England." The congregation of the Reformed Church and their friends are not only invited but urged to be present.

This patriotic lecture coming, as it does, between the birthdays of our two great Americans will undoubtedly bring out the full congregation and their friends.

After the lecture a social hour will be spent in the Sunday school room. "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag" and hike towards the Reformed Church lecture room to-morrow evening.

Shove It on the Girls.

Mother love is wonderful, and we have no doubt that Nathaniel always felt, and told, that her boy, Solomon, would never have carried on the way he did if the girls hadn't dressed so immediately.

Mrs. J. M. Fine

Life was going along very smoothly for L. M. Fine of Chicago, and his married life was bliss and roses until one day he was confronted with the photograph of his wife on one of his office calendars. That was not enough. He saw the picture again and again, smiling at him from soap wrappers, catnip bottles, cigar boxes, street car cards and the like until, well, his language could only be translated into dashes.

He Knew Her.

To the husband of the novelist the publisher was extolling her manifold virtues. "She has wonderful powers of observation," he said, "combined with a remarkable descriptive faculty and an inexhaustible vocabulary." "You said it," agreed the husband. "She can look at another woman's gown for two seconds and describe it for two hours without repeating herself."

His Interpretation.

A profane man was reminded of the Biblical command: "Swear not at all." "I do not swear at all," was his response. "I only swear at those who annoy me."—Boston Transcript.

Indians Thrived in the Cold.

If the dwellers in western and central Canada find the severe cold of our brief periods of low temperatures somewhat a hardship, how was existence tolerable, even possible, to the Indians when they had to depend wholly upon themselves for even the bare means of subsistence? How did they get through the winter at all? The question is suggested when our conditions of life are contrasted with theirs.—Montreal Family Herald.

The Use of Glass.

Glass is not altogether a modern requisite. It was used by the Romans in the time of Tiberius, and the ruins of Pompeii show windows of glass used before the year 70. In medieval times wonderful effects were created with glass.

MOTHER BROWN BAT.

"Ah, children," said Mother Brown Bat. "It will soon be time to go to bed. And we shall sleep well, for hats are good sleepers. We shall sleep especially well if it is to be a cold winter."

"Then we will not appear until the spring comes."

"You have been good children," said Mother Brown Bat, after a moment when she had looked again at her two babies. "What darling little yellow hats you were when first you were born. You are becoming greenish brown in color now which is like my coat."

"It is well for you to dress as I do, but it is also nice for you to wear yellow at first."

"Babies shouldn't dress as grown-ups! Not even bat babies."

"Yes," she went on, "you were quiet in the daytime and never disturbed me, but slept in my wing beds."

"I am so glad that my children aren't the kind who would disturb me in the daytime when I sleep."

"There are some creatures who don't want to be disturbed at night, and they don't care how much noise their children make in the daytime."

"But Mother Brown Bat is different. And so are the other mothers in the Brown Bat family. I don't care about being kept awake at night, for night is the time I want to be awake."

"But I wouldn't want to be kept awake in the daytime, as the daytime is the time in which I like to sleep."

"You were so good, my beautiful bat babies, and you understood. You were so quiet and so happy. You never complained. You never said you wanted a nest or a home of that sort."

"You were perfectly satisfied with Mother Brown Bat's wings, as all sensible bat babies should be."

"Some children want homes or nurseries or nests, but not the Brown Bat babies. Mother Brown Bat never has to hunt for a home for her family. No house-hunting for Mother Brown Bat!"

"She has no worries of that sort."

"Soon, though, we will go to our winter homes and there we will sleep throughout the whole winter like so many of the creatures do."

"Ah, my children, what marvelous trips we have made. I have not had to call in a neighbor to take care of my babies when I went out. No, my babies hung on to my neck and came along, too."

"What times we used to have catching bugs and other delicious delicacies we found about at night. What meals we used to have."

"We used to have beetle pudding quite often and goat salad. Do you remember, my bat babies?"

"We remember, Mother Brown Bat. But," they said, "we are no longer babies."

"That is true," said Mother Brown Bat, "and you are able to look after yourselves; but I still call you babies, for it is hard for a mother to realize her children are grown-up and you do grow up so quickly."

"Sometimes we went about in the very, very early mornings and often we started out before it was really night. But we took great care, for we kept away from people. People have such a curious habit of not liking bats."

"That is hard to believe," said the bat children.

"I think so," said Mother Brown Bat. "I should think they would like bats, and especially the members of our family, for we are so small and dainty and so clever in the way we hang on to the trees when we sleep, rather than flailing about house-keeping and bed-making all the time."

"House-keeping takes up too much time for a Mother Brown Bat and the Mr. Brown Bat and the Little Brown Bats wouldn't half appreciate it either. So she doesn't bother to do a lot of work for no reason at all, for none of us miss a home life. We're perfectly happy as we are and with our own ways and habits."

"Perfectly happy," agreed the bat children. "We're perfectly happy, Mother Brown Bat."

WHAT TO EAT

A very pretty apple to serve on the plate with a slice of cold boiled or roasted ham is the following:

Roast Apples.—

Core and peel very smoothly enough even-sized apples to serve; cook in a sirup of equal quantities of sugar and water, or a thinner sirup may be used if desired, adding two or more tablespoonfuls of the tiny red cinnamon drops and basting the apple while cooking, with the red juice. Do not cook until the apples lose their shape or the sirup its beautiful color.

Glazed Onions With Steak.—Cook small, even-sized onions until soft, but firm enough to hold their shape. Make a sirup of one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of stock; cook to the soft-ball stage; add the onions and continue to cook for two or three minutes. Lift out when the sirup begins to discolor and place the onions around the steak on a hot platter.

Tongue for Luncheon.—Roll the tongue until tender, in meat stock that has been seasoned with carrots, onions, parsnips, sweet marjoram, chervil and a very little mint, adding salt and pepper, celery, salt and cayenne to taste. When the tongue is well cooked remove the skin, brush over with beaten egg and straw with fine bread crumbs. Bake for half an hour to brown the crumbs, basting every eight minutes with vinegar and water in equal parts. Remove from the oven and let get cold. Place on a long platter and slice into thin slices, allowing it to retain its shape. Spread a thick mayonnaise over triangles of roast; decorate these by covering with thinly sliced pimientos, and arrange them around the sliced tongue. Garnish with parsley.

Apple and Cranberry Roll.—Make a rich biscuit dough; roll out and cover with one cupful of chopped apples, sugared and flavored with nutmeg. Roll up and bake one-half hour. Then pour over some cranberry sauce and bake ten minutes longer. Any fruit or canned fruit juice may be used in place of the cranberries.

JULIA HAD SAID SOMETHING

Sam: Was Forced to Admit That His Better Half "Chatted About Dem Clothes."

Courtesy Dinwiddie, executive of the National Child Health Council, told the following story at the meeting of the Monday evening club. It belongs to the great fund of family stories of which each home has its share.

His family had a colored woman of the name of Julia, who did the wash, according to Mr. Dinwiddie, her husband transporting the clothes to and from home. One night he started with a big bundle of freshly washed clothing. It had been raining and there were puddles along the street. The unfortunate man slipped, the bundle hit the street, opened up, and its contents went into a mud puddle. Needless to say, he couldn't get the wash, and he hated to take it back home. But he was forced to "face the music."

A week later the colored man showed up at the Dinwiddie home with the clothes speck and span. The family, of course, had found out what had delayed their wash and were prepared for Sam.

That worthy, however, did not say a word about his mishap.

"Sam," asked a member of the family, "didn't Julia have anything to say about the clothes when you had to take them back?"

Sam grinned.

"Julia—she done chatted quite a while about dem clothes," he said.—Washington Star.

AVIATION NOT HIS OBJECT

Swede Had His Own Reason for Rejecting Offer of That Particular Brand of Liquor.

Stephen Hunter Love of Salt Lake City, prominent in the beet sugar industry of Utah and a member of the food administration during the war, was in Washington for the sugar hearings before the Finance committee of the senate. Mr. Love has a great gift for story telling, and is particularly fond of Scandinavian dialect being well-nigh perfect.

It seems that recently a picturesque old Swede employed in one of the sugar mills thought to himself that he would not mind having a little drink or two after a particularly hard day's work. So he hid himself to a boot-legger of his acquaintance.

"You got any that squitrel whisky, Yohn?" he asked.

"No, I haven't Sven," replied the liquor merchant, "but I can give you a little old crow. How 'bout that?"

Sven thought for a moment; then he shook his head.

"Nay-da," he said. "Ay don't want to Ay: Ay just want to hop a little."—Washington Post.

Health Habits for Children.

Health instruction and its result in the formation of habits, is the subject of a daily record of health habits for every child in the schools of Washington, D. C., according to the United States bureau of education. Blanks are marked after the morning daily inspection by the teacher. Each school day a mark is given for the pupil's observance of such habits as brushing the teeth, carrying a handkerchief, keeping a good posture, taking thirty minutes physical exercise. Thirteen health habits are noted. At the end of a month a rating is given to correspond with the daily record, and the sheet is sent home folded around the report card, to be signed by the parent and returned. It is expected thus to secure the co-operation of the home in inculcating health habits. Children showing extreme neglect are referred to the school nurse.

It Sounded Excessive.

An Indianapolis accountant, who is of English birth, says that when he arrived in the United States several years ago, he did not propose to permit himself to be imposed on.

When he landed he gave his hand baggage to a porter to carry to a hotel. When he reached the hotel, he asked the porter what the charge was for carrying the baggage.

"Two bits, sir," was the porter's reply.

"Now look here," said the traveler. "I'm not a green Englishman like you think I am. I know your tricks. I'm going to give you 50 cents and you'll have to be satisfied with that. It's all you get."

Oldest Man-Child Forest.

The oldest living forest planted by man is said to be that set out by St. Francis and his monks in the city of Florence, Italy. It was started in 1250 and since that time has been under the care of some supervisor interested in forestry. The forest is of olive fir and beech.

Emotional Old Fighter.

Tex Rickard told the other day of a dinner that was given to old Bob Fitzsimmons at a cafe in Fourteenth street. The bunch got together and bought the warrior a huge, non-painable silver loving cup. Johnny Pollock presented it. After about the tenth whisky—they drank them straight those days—Pollock flashed the cup on the emotional old fellow. Fitz stared at the big and gleaming thing. Then he glowered at Pollock and yelled: "Now, dammit, you've gone and made me cry!"—New York Correspondence of the Kansas City Star.

Find Pure Amber Deposit.

What was formerly considered droes in the mines of the Colmanit colonies, Nicola, B. C., has been discovered to be pure amber, the first deposit of the kind ever found on the North American continent. The discovery is credited to E. S. Oliver of the Oliver chemical process syndicate. It was formerly believed to be resinite. There are large quantities of the amber.

"Ask the Man Who Owns One"

Sailors' Superstitions.

Time was when sailors would not think of sailing without a charm or pocketpiece of some kind to ward off bad luck. Wind beads were a favorite and in nearly every port were mementos to sell them. Tattoos were considered essential for bon voyage, especially the butterfly on the shoulder predominated for good luck. A pig tattooed on the foot was assurance the man would never drown. Sailors used to say not a man is known to have drowned if he possessed this significant charm against fate.
